

Abstract

Disclosed is a thin film material including a substrate (10) and an underlying layer (11) formed on the substrate. A large number of recesses of an extremely small size are demonstrated in a surface of the underlying layer (11). On this surface of the underlying layer is formed a magnetic film (12) or a non-magnetic film (12).